Was that Setween Lavigue and Walcott Last Night-The Colored Boy Throws $U\rho$ the Spougs in the Twelfth.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 29.-On no similar occasion has such a crowd ever assembled in Mechanics pavilion as that which poured into the big building to-night to witness the Lavinge-Walcott fight. While the attendance at the Corbett-Sharkey bout and the notorious Fitzsimmons-Sharkey flasco were something enormous, the crowd came to see the big men in ring costume rather than with the hope of seeing a great contest. But to-night every one came with the expectation of seeing a decisive encounter between the two greatest fighters in the world at their weight.

The doors leading to the gallery of the The doors leading to the gallery of the big building were thrown open as early as 5:30 p. m., and those who held tickets admitting them to that portion of the pavilion acted on the rule of "first come, first served." The arrangements made by the Occidental club for the comrort of the public were most elaborate. A squad of fifty policemen guarded the entrance and kept back the surging crowd which thronged the streets in the vicinity of the pavilion. The ushers were attired in Turkish costume of the most fantastic colors in order that they might be easily distinguished. A large force of Pinkerton men supervised the seating of the spectators, and those who held the proper credentials were placed in their seats without confusion.

The gong sounded at 9:55. Both men came to the center and sparred La-

Lavigne forced the fighting and land-ed both right and left on the law, stag-gering the colored man, who repeatedly clinched to avoid the terrific rushes from Lavigne.
In the second round Lavigne rushed

In the fourth the kid put a straight left on Walcott's nose and rushed him to the ropes and landed hard on Walcott's nose. Walcott smiled and then forced the pace and landed a left on the head, but Lavigne rushed him to the ring post and Walcott slipped to the floor.

Walcott was not anxious to leave his corner for the twelfth and asked for a corner for the twelfth and asked for a draw, but the kid rushed at him like a tiger. Upon finding that he had to fight, Joe did it with a will, but Lavinge landed a hot one right under the heart which sobered Walcott. Walcott clung to the kid at every opportunity until parted by the referee. Lavinge rushed him to the ropes and led frequently without returns. Joe being apparently unable to either ward off the blows or return them. He again limped to his corner and a few seconds later O'Rourke called Referee Graney over and said that his man could go no further.

CYCLING.

When the bicycle was in its infancy and new parts and styles of tires were constantly being tested, it was necessary to give the rider a long guarantee in order to show that the maker had faith in his new article. Procumatic tires, wood rins, light tubing, and various other changes in the make-up of the wheel had to be guaranteed, and it will be the same in the chainless affair. Few riders will insist that a longer guarantee than two months be given, especially when the change is such a radical one. Riders will hardly believe the claims that certain wheels have been tested so many thousand miles without a break, and will want some assurance that the wheel will stand when tested by themselves. Many wheelmen have expressed themselves in in order to show that the maker had wheelmen have expressed themselves i this line, and manufacturers will doub less give careful consideration to the matter.

Jimmy Michael has taken up his abode at Hamilton, Ind., where he will train for his match race at twenty-five miles with J. Frank Starbuck, in New York, Thanksgiving eve. It is worthy of note that Michael has taken a chain-less wheel with him to Hammond.

The amateur end of the cycle racing game has been an interesting one during the past season, and no less than five "Simon Pures" have endeavored to heat the amateur record of the great Zimmerman, who wen 105 races in a season. Two of these men may reach the much sought for honor, as they are still at the sport, although the regular season has closed in the north. E. W. Peabody, the Chicago crack, and Fred Schade, the quriy-neaded youth from Georgetown University, are the two who have the best chance, and both are fighting hard for the honor. Peabody has gone on the southern circuit, and Saturday saw his eighteenth victory, while Schade is riding at every meet in sight and has sixty-eight first prizes to his credit. These two records are far beyond what the professiones have accomplished, and so to prove that they they are as far above the other men in their class and Bald and other men in the content in the content of the class of the Turners. THE MERRILL BAR.

The work of dredging off the bar be low the new dam at Merrill, Pa., will be started at once. Major Bixley, United Sintes engineer, has issued orders to that effect. The order came about in an unusual manner. The Monongahela and Western Dredging Company, of and Western Dredging Company, of listsburgh, was awarded the contract last summer to do some dredging at Merrill, but was unable on account of the failing river to send its dredges there. The government was in no particular hurry to have the work done, and was waiting for the contrasting company to do its work. In the meantime, however, the Pittsburgh coal men got in an awful hurry to have the bar at Merrill dredged off, and insisted on the government utilizing a dredge already at the dam, but belonging to another contractor, Mr. C. I. McDonald, of Pittsburgh. Wednesday Major Bixby instructed Captain William Martin, the assistant engineer, to see the Pittsburgh coal men and ascertain if the Monongahela and Western Company would turn its contract over to Mr. McDonald, who, having a dredge directly on the ground, was anxious for the work. The Monongahela and Western Company was willing, and accordingly turned its contract over to Mr. McDonald. Work, therefore, will be started at once by Mr. McDonald at removing the bar which the Pittsburgh coal men were so anxious about, and the conference with Major Bixby which they asked for by telegraph is now unnecessary, Major Bixby had, however, arranged to go to Pittsburgh and to Merrill to look over the ground, but will now probably go over the Kanawha river first. Pittsburgh, was awarded the contract in Martin's Ferry yesterday.
